

Port of Mabana Neighborhood

CAMANO ISLAND, WA

---

A Piece of History

This historic port is packed with authentic Pacific Northwest charm. From its scenic sandy beaches to the well-preserved old homesteads, visitors and locals alike will find plenty to love. Whether you're exploring coastal trails or discovering rich local history, this charming port offers a memorable Pacific Northwest experience.

---

Escape to Mabana Beach

Mabana Beach, a cozy and private spot on Camano Island's southwest side, is known for stunning sunsets reflecting off calm waters. Residents enjoy shallow swimming areas extending 300 feet before deeper waters shaped by whale impressions. This beach is ideal for swimming, crabbing, kayaking, and paddleboarding, as well as relaxing activities like beachcombing and whale watching. Perfect for retirees, Mabana offers a peaceful retreat to unwind year-round.

Close-Knit Community

TMabana Beach features a unique blend of low-bank and high-bank waterfront homes, with high-bank properties offering stairs for easy beach access. The area showcases an eclectic mix of charming cabins, cozy cottages, and modern new construction homes. Each Mabana Beach residence and its community bring their own distinctive Pacific Northwest charm, making it a sought-after waterfront destination.

Peaceful Vibes

Decompress in the serene and magical setting of Mabana Beach. Listen to the gentle sounds of water rippling while taking in stunning views of Whidbey Island across Saratoga Passage. On clear, sunny days, enjoy breathtaking glimpses of the Olympic Mountains, making Mabana a peaceful Pacific Northwest retreat.

History

Established in 1926, the Port of Mabana was a 60-foot stretch purchased for $500 from a local logger. Functioning as a small port, its dock received mail, freight, and passengers all throughout WWII. Today, the Port is still active but functions to keep debris clear during high tide for crabbing. The old Mabana schoolhouse is now an art studio for renowned local artist, Linda Demetre, who paints using oil and impressionistic style.

PORT OF MABANA | CAMANO ISLAND, WA

Windermere Real Estate / CIR